Six Sigma Master
Black Belt Certification
March 25 - 29, 2019

The Six Sigma Master Black Belt Certification Program, developed and taught by award-winning ASU faculty and industry experts, weaves the development of advanced technical expertise with strategic leadership skills. Participants are equipped to meet the challenges of driving quantifiable improvements and sustainably leading change in their organizations. They will draw on the extensive practical experience of the instructors, learning how to implement the tools, how to be creative problem solvers and how to work with senior leaders as a strategic partner.

Participants attending the ASU Master Black Belt program will:

- Develop skills required of Operational Excellence leadership
- Become champions of advanced Six Sigma tools and culture
- Implement change initiatives and gain competitive advantage in their organization’s leadership team
- Use technical tools, leadership competencies and power linking to encourage individual discovery when solving problems

Deliverables

Participants are required to attend a 5-day intensive on-campus program, followed by completion of a White Paper—high-level strategic planning document that can be used in the participants’ organization and will demonstrate the participant’s knowledge of key concepts learned in class.

A unique aspect to the ASU Master Black Belt program, which supports development of the White Paper as well as your continued learning, is access to five additional online courses:

- Lean Green Belt
- Design of Experiments
- Reverse Surface Metallurgy
- Design for Six Sigma
- Forecasting Time Series Analysis

With the completion of this course, you will receive 4.0 continuing education units from Arizona State University.

Requirements

In order to be accepted to this program you must:

- Have three years of experience as a Black Belt
- Have three documented projects
- Register for the course and email your credentials to cats.smith@asu.edu within one week to be reviewed by faculty for the program
- Send a short description of all three projects
- When and where you were certified as a Black Belt, and
- A description of your work experience in letter form or a resume
