RETIRED
We are in the business of helping students imagine and become their future possible selves. Joyce Donahue’s years of career counseling experience helped the Fulton Schools Career Center achieve this at every level. Joyce was immensely valuable in helping launch the Center, and implementing programs like Career Exploration Night, Peer Career Coaching, and career fairs that served nearly 24,000 by the time she retired in 2019. Her greatest achievements, however, are recounted by students who recall Joyce’s deep compassion and masterful skills as she counseled them through many tears and tough decisions, while also experiencing their great joy and successes in securing new opportunities. To Joyce’s colleagues, she was highly regarded for her masterful counseling, sage perspectives, and focus on fun for joyful living.

~Robin Hammond, Director Engineering Career Center

Has distinguishedly served as a computing faculty member at ASU for 35 years and has spent over half of his tenure in various Administrative Faculty positions including: Associate Chair, Program Chair, Chair, Director, Associate Dean, and Interim Dean. In these capacities, he has ushered through approval of five new academic programs including the BS Software Engineering and BS Information Technology, and one Academic Unit, which is now known as the Software Engineering Faculty within the School of Computing, Informatics, and Decision Systems Engineering (CIDSE). We are greatly indebted to Dr. Lindquist’s exemplary service and the significant contributions he has made to CIDSE, FSE and ASU and we look forward to continuing a lasting relationship.

~Sandeep Gupta, CIDSE Director & Professor

Karly’s battle with cancer ended in September after we had known and worked with her for nearly a decade. Her work was important and affected nearly every student and faculty member in the Fulton Schools, but we knew her more for her infectious good cheer and, of course, fantastic baking skills. We remember her as a good friend and excellent member of our “Fulton family.”
Ed Hall | EDO

Ed’s long history of successful university-industry alliances and management of research infrastructure ensured that the Fulton Schools grew the intensity and impact of our research activities. He was an irreplaceable member of our leadership team for many years, leading infrastructure planning and management, promoting and supporting research clusters, and engaging in faculty hiring and strategic planning.
