ASU Fulbright

U.S. Scholars Program Information Sessions

Take Your Research & Teaching Abroad!

Have you ever thought about applying for a Fulbright to teach or conduct research abroad? The U.S. Fulbright Scholar competition is now open, with applications due in September. Applications submitted during this year's competition is for research and/or teaching abroad to take place during 2026-2027 academic year. Grants range from 3 to 9 months abroad, with most lasting a semester.

Come learn more about Fulbright opportunities and strategies for applying. Across two sessions, Karen Engler-Weber, ASU's Fulbright Liaison will discuss different award options available for faculty, academics and administrators. Additionally, you'll learn about the application process, important strategies for applying and the extensive ASU resources available every step of the way to support your Fulbright goals. Prospective applicants are strongly encouraged to attend both sessions.
